

i think that if i am paying for xm radio then the competition has no business telling me what i can and can't listen too. i think that this move by the competition is uncalled for and just plain rude!